I. INTRODUCTION

Presently pending before the Court are five securities class actions (collectively the "Action") brought on behalf of all persons or entities (the "Class") who purchased or otherwise acquired securities of defendant E*Trade Financial Corporation ("E*Trade" or the "Company") between April 20, 2006, and November 9, 2007, inclusive (the "Class Period"). Violations of Sections 10(b) and 20(a) of the Exchange Act and Rule 10b-5 promulgated thereunder are alleged against E*Trade, Mitchell H. Caplan and Robert J. Simmons (collectively referred to as "Defendants").

Several motions have been made for consolidation pursuant to Rule 42, Fed. R. Civ. P. and for appointment as lead plaintiff in the consolidated action, pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 78u-4(a)(3)(B) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act"), as amended by Section 101(a) of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 (the "PSLRA"), and for approval of lead counsel.

The competing plaintiffs and their claimed losses are as follows:

MOVANT	APPROXIMATE CLAIMED LOSSES (ROUNDED TO THE NEAREST DOLLAR)
Kristen-Straxton Group (KSG)	$133,425,508
State Teachers Retirement System of Ohio (STRS)	$37,550,914
Skandia Life Insurance Corporation Ltd.	$10,244,730
Ira Newman (Newman)	$487,839

Additional motions filed by First Derivative Traders LP and Robert and Jessica Grant, and the Institutional Investor Group<sup>1</sup> have been withdrawn. For the reasons set forth below, the actions are consolidated, KSG is appointed lead plaintiff, Brower Piven is appointed lead counsel, Newman is appointed co-lead plaintiff and Levi & Kersinsky is appointed co-lead counsel. The Court reserves the ability to alter this structure at any time and for any reason, and will do so if it finds that the progress of the litigation is being delayed, that expenses are being unnecessarily enlarged, or if the structure established proves detrimental, in any way, to the best interests of the proposed class.

II. PRIOR PROCEEDINGS

Five complaints were filed in the Southern District of New York: (1) Freudenberg v. E*TRADE Fin. Corp., No. 07 Civ. 8538 (S.D.N.Y.), filed October 2, 2007; (2) Boston v. E*TRADE Fin. Corp., No. 07 Civ. 8808 (S.D.N.Y.), filed October 12, 2007; (3) Thulman v. E*TRADE Fin. Corp., No. 07 Civ. 9651 (S.D.N.Y.), filed October 30, 2007; (4) Davidson v. E*Trade Fin. Corp., No. 07 Civ. 10400 (S.D.N.Y.), filed on November 16, 2007; and (5) Ferenc v. E*Trade Fin. Corp., No. 07 Civ. 10540 (S.D.N.Y.), filed November 21, 2007. The class period alleged in the complaints filed in the first three cases is December 14, 2006 to September 25, 2007. The complaint in the fourth-filed Davidson case expanded the Class Period to December 14, 2006 through November 9, 2007, and the complaint in the fifth-filed Ferenc case further expanded the Class Period to April 20, 2006 through November 9, 2007.

The complaints allege that E*Trade provides financial services to retail, corporate and institutional customers worldwide, including investing, trading, checking, money market and savings accounts, and that since its inception E*Trade has generated revenues from the commissions it charged customers who traded stocks on its website. The complaint further allege that in 2003, E*Trade began purchasing mortgages, home-equity loans and other mortgage-related assets, and thereafter, throughout the Class Period, Defendants failed to disclose material adverse facts about the Company's business, prospects and financial condition, including: (1) the Company was experiencing increased delinquencies in its mortgage and home equity portfolios; (2) the Company had failed to adequately reserve for loan losses; (3) consequently, the Company would be forced to take $95 million in charge-offs and a provision for expenses of $245 million in the second half of 2007; (4) the Company had failed to timely record impairments on certain securities, and as a result, such portfolios were materially overvalued; and (5) as a result of the foregoing, the Company's statements about its 2007 financial and operational results were lacking in any reasonable basis when made.

It is further alleged that, subsequent to a series of negative partial disclosures regarding E*Trade that caused the value of E*Trade's publicly traded securities to decline significantly in August, 2007, E*Trade announced on September 17, 2007, that it was exiting the wholesale mortgage business, restructuring its institutional brokerage business, and revising its previously issued 2007 financial guidance. E*Trade also disclosed that it expected charge-offs of $95 million and a provision for expenses of $245 million in the second half of 2007 due to an increased allowance for loan losses. In addition, E*Trade announced that it expected "severance, restructuring and other exit charges" of $32 million as a result of its decision to exit and restructure the businesses. The Company also stated that it was revising its earnings guidance for 2007, to anticipated earnings per share ("EPS") ranging between $1.05 and $1.15 for the year, significantly lower than the Company's previously issued guidance in the range of $1.53 to $1.67 EPS for the year. As a result of this news, over the next six trading days E*Trade shares fell $2.32 per share, or more than 16.3 percent, to close on September 25, 2007, at $11.89 per share. These disclosures in the summer and fall of 2007 are alleged to have resulted in losses to the E*Trade Investor Class members estimated in the billions of dollars.

On October 2, 2007, counsel in the first filed securities action against E*Trade, Freudenberg v. E*Trade Fin. Corp., No. 07 Civ. 8538, caused a notice (the "Notice") to be published, pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 78u-4(a)(3)(A)(i), which announced that a securities class action had been filed against E*Trade and advised putative class members that they had 60 days from October 2, 2007, to file a motion to seek appointment as a lead plaintiff in the action. The 60-day time period for Class members to move to be appointed lead plaintiff under 15 U.S.C. § 78u-4(a)(3)(A)(b) expired on December 3, 2007. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 6(a)(3).

The instant motions were heard and marked fully submitted on January 16, 2008. There is no opposition to the consolidation motions.

III. THE ACTIONS ARE CONSOLIDATED

The PSLRA provides that “[i]f more than one action on behalf of a class asserting substantially the same claim or claims arising under this chapter has been filed,” the court shall not make the determination of the most adequate plaintiff “until after the decision on the motion to consolidate is rendered.” 15 U.S.C. § 78u-4(a)(3)(B)(ii). Thereafter, the Court “shall appoint the most adequate plaintiff as lead plaintiff for the consolidated actions . . . .” Id.

Consolidation is appropriate where actions before the Court involve common questions of law or fact. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 42(a). These five putative class actions each seek relief on behalf of classes of persons and entities that traded in E*Trade securities during slightly different class periods, claiming violations of the federal securities laws under Sections 10(b) and 20(a) of the Exchange Act and Rule 10b-5 promulgated thereunder. The five actions assert virtually identical claims based on virtually identical factual allegations. As such, the cases are well-suited for consolidation and are therefore consolidated.

IV. KSG IS APPOINTED LEAD PLAINTIFF AND NEWMAN IS APPOINTED CO-LEAD PLAINTIFF

A. The PSLRA Procedure

The PSLRA establishes a statutory presumption that a party is the most adequate plaintiff on a showing that it:

(aa) has either filed the complaint or made a motion in response to a notice . . . ;

(bb) in the determination of the court, has the largest financial interest in the relief sought by the class; and

(cc) otherwise satisfies the requirements of Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

15 U.S.C. § 78u-4(a)(3)(B)(iii)(I).

Once it is determined who among the movants seeking appointment as lead plaintiff is the presumptive lead plaintiff, the presumption can be rebutted only upon proof by a member of the purported class that the presumptive lead plaintiff "will not fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class" or "is subject to unique defenses that render such plaintiff incapable of adequately representing the class." 15 U.S.C. § 78u-4(a)(3)(B)(iii)(II).

B. KSG is Appointed Lead Plaintiff

KSG is the "most adequate plaintiff." KSG is comprised of Kristen Management Limited ("Kristen"), Straxton Properties Inc. ("Straxton"), and Javed Fiyaz ("Fiyaz"). Kristen and Straxton have common ownership and are investment companies organized and existing under the laws of the British Virgin Islands. Vincent D. de Canniere ("Canniere") is sole manager of both companies. Fiyaz, an individual investor who resides in London, England, has a long-standing personal and business relationship with Canniere that pre-dates their investments in E*Trade. KSG timely moved for appointment as lead plaintiff on December 3, 2008.

1. KSG Has the Largest Financial Interest

Courts have developed a four-factor test to determine which party has the largest financial interest in the litigation. The Court is to consider: "(1) the number of shares purchased during the class period; (2) the number of net shares purchased during the class period (i.e. the number of shares retained during the period); (3) the total net funds expended during the class period; and (4) the approximate loss suffered during the class period." Strougo v. Brantley Capital Corp., 243 F.R.D. 100, 104 (S.D.N.Y. 2007).

KSG expended a total of $308,526,898 on purchases of E*Trade CFDs, purchasing securities equivalent to 12,764,763 shares of E*Trade common stock. KSG's losses break down among the group's members as follows:

Kristen Management Limited	$12,070,139
Straxton Properties Inc.	$94,228,019
Javed Fiyaz	$27,117,350
TOTAL LOSSES	$133,415,508

The party with the next most significant losses is STRS, which purchased a total of 4,360,800 shares, expending net funds of over $48 million. STRS's alleged losses, at $37,550,914, do not amount to even half of Straxton's alone. Therefore, KSG has the largest financial interest of any party seeking appointment as lead plaintiff.

KSG Is An Appropriate Group

The PSLRA explicitly permits a "group of persons" to serve as lead plaintiff. See 15 U.S.C. § 78u-4(a)(3)(B)(iii)(I); see also In re Cendant Corp. Litig., 264 F.3d 201, 266 (3d Cir. 2001). However, the appointment of an aggregation of unrelated plaintiffs as lead counsel risks "defeat[ing] the purpose of choosing a lead plaintiff." In re Donnkenny Inc. Sec. Litig., 171 F.R.D. 156, 157 (S.D.N.Y. 1997). "Appointing lead plaintiff on the basis of financial interest, rather than on a 'first come, first serve' basis, was intended to ensure that institutional plaintiffs with expertise in the securities market and real financial interests in the integrity of the market would control the litigation, not lawyers." Donnkenny, 171 F.R.D. 158; see also In re Razorfish, Inc. Sec. Litig., 143 F. Supp. 2d 304, 309 (S.D.N.Y. 2001). Thus, the Court must reject a movant "group" with the largest losses on a determination that it is "simply an artifice cobbled together by cooperating counsel for the obvious purpose of creating a large enough grouping of investors to qualify as 'lead plaintiff,' which can then select the equally artificial grouping of counsel as 'lead counsel.'" Id. at 307-08.

A group consisting of persons that have no pre-litigation relationship may be acceptable as a lead plaintiff candidate so long as the group is relatively small and therefore presumptively cohesive. See, e.g., Weltz v. Lee, 199 F.R.D. 129, 133 (S.D.N.Y. 2001) (aggregation of seven shareholders did not present group so cumbersome as to deliver control of litigation into the hands of the lawyers); In re Oxford Health Plans Inc., Sec. Litig., 182 F.R.D. 42, 46 (S.D.N.Y. 1998) ("The Court is convinced that the limited size of the [plaintiff group] coupled with the scope of each individuals' loss will make the [plaintiff group], as reduced by the Court, an effective monitor of its counsels' performance, thereby fulfilling its purpose under the PSLRA."); cf. In re Flight Safety Techs., Inc. Sec. Litig., 231 F.R.D. 124, 129 (D. Conn. 2005) (finding that appointing eight unrelated and unfamiliar plaintiffs as co-lead plaintiffs, when no preexisting relationship was evident, would be counter to both the terms and the spirit of the PLSRA). A group consisting of persons with a pre-litigation relationship is more likely to be appointed lead plaintiff, on the logic that a more cohesive group is more likely to function smoothly. See, e.g., Xianglin Shi v. Sina Corp., 05 Civ. 2154 (NRB), 2005 WL 1561438, at *5 (S.D.N.Y. July 1, 2005).

KSG has only three members, who submit that they have a longstanding pre-litigation relationship and a clear understanding as to consultation, information sharing, and management of the litigation. Cf. Local 144 Nursing Home Pension Fund v. Honeywell Int'l, Inc., No. 00-3605, 2000 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 16712 at *13-14 (D.N.J. Nov. 16, 2000)

("cohesiveness of a group" demonstrated through declarations "advis[ing] [the court] of' inter alia "its sophistication; ability and inclination to actively oversee the litigation"; "the past and continued meetings between the [group's members] and outside counsel"; "the fact that the investors chose outside counsel (not vice versa)"; procedures and protocols to make decisions in the case). The appropriateness of KSG's appointment is further supported by the fact that, as noted above, Straxton's losses alone would qualify it as the party with the largest financial interest in the litigation. Cf. Barnett v. Elan Corp., 236 F.R.D. 158, 162 (S.D.N.Y. 2005) (holding that there was no evidence group of six investors was formed in bad faith where "even were the Court to deconstruct the Group, two of its individual members would still have the 'largest financial interest'").

2. KSG Satisfies the Rule 23 Requirements

To qualify as the presumptive lead plaintiff KSG must also "satisf[y] the requirements of Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure." 15 U.S.C. § 78u-4(a)(3)(B).

Rule 23(a) provides that one or more members of a class may sue on behalf of the class if:

(1) the class is so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable, (2) there are questions of law or fact common to the class, (3) the claims or defenses of the representative parties are typical of the claims or defenses of the class, and (4) the representative parties will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class.

At this stage of the litigation, the moving plaintiff must only make a preliminary showing that the adequacy and typicality requirements have been met. Weinberg v. Atlas Air Worldwide Holdings, Inc., 216 F.R.D. 248, 252 (S.D.N.Y. 2003); In re Party City Sec. Litig., 189 F.R.D. 91, 106 (D.N.J. 1999) ("A wide-ranging analysis under Rule 23 is not appropriate [at this initial stage of the litigation] and should be left for consideration of a motion for class certification." (quoting Fischler v. AMSouth Bancorporation, No. 96-1567-Civ-T-17A, 1997 WL 118429, at *2 (M.D. Fla. 1997)) (alteration in original)).

Typicality is established where each class member's claim "arises from the same course of events, and each class member makes similar legal arguments to prove the defendant's liability." In re Drexel Burnham Lambert Group, Inc., 960 F.2d 285, 291 (2d Cir. 1992). However, the claims of the class representative need not be identical those of all members of the class. "[T]he typicality requirement may be satisfied even if there are factual dissimilarities or variations between the claims of the named plaintiffs and those of other class members, including distinctions in the qualifications of the class members." Bishop v. N.Y. City Dep't of Housing Pres. & Dev., 141 F.R.D. 229, 238 (2d Cir. 1992).

STRS has challenged KSG's typicality on the grounds that KSG purchased contracts for difference ("CFDs") rather than E*Trade securities. STRS claims that, as a purchaser of CFDs rather than common shares, KSG is subject to a number of unique defenses that threaten to become the focus of the litigation. However, a CFD is a "security" as that term is broadly defined in the Securities Exchange Act of 1934,<sup>2</sup> and STRS has failed to any note, stock, treasury stock, security future, bond, debenture, certificate of interest or participation in any profit-sharing agreement or in any oil, gas, or other mineral royalty or lease, any collateral-trust certificate, preorganization certificate or subscription, transferable share, investment contract, voting-trust certificate, certificate of deposit for a security, any put, call, straddle, option, or privilege on any security, certificate of deposit, or group or index of securities (including any interest therein or based on the value thereof), or any put, call, straddle, option, or privilege entered into on a national securities exchange relating to foreign currency, or in general, any instrument commonly known as a "security"; or any certificate of interest or participation establish any divergence between KSG's interests and those of putative class members who purchased other types of securities. Nor does it appear that STRS's proposed "potential unique defenses," each of which is based on distinctions between CFDs and common shares, risk diverting the focus of the litigation.

In light of the Securities Exchange Act's broad definition of "security," courts have appointed as lead plaintiffs purchasers of a wide variety of financial instruments. Further, they often appoint purchasers of one type of securities to represent purchasers of other types of securities of the same issuer where the interests of those purchasers are aligned. See In re Sepracor Inc., 233 F.R.D. 52, 56 (D. Mass. 2005) (appointing purchaser of options as lead plaintiff for class that included purchasers of all defendant company's equity securities); see also In re Enron Corp. Sec. Litig., 206 F.R.D. 427, 445 (S.D. Tex. 2002) ("[C]ourts have repeatedly concluded that stock purchasers can represent purchasers of debt instruments and vice versa in the same action."); Endo v. Albertine, 147 F.R.D. 164, 167 (N.D. Ill.

in, temporary or interim certificate for, receipt for, or warrant or right to subscribe to or purchase, any of the foregoing; but shall not include currency or any note, draft, bill of exchange, or banker's acceptance which has a maturity at the time of issuance of not exceeding nine months, exclusive of days of grace, or any renewal thereof the maturity of which is likewise limited.

15 U.S.C. § 78c(a)(10).

1993) (appointing lead plaintiffs who purchased only common stock to represent class of purchasers of debentures, notes and common stock); Deutschman v. Beneficial Corp., 132 F.R.D. 359 (D. Del. 1990) (appointing lead plaintiff who purchased only call options to represent class of purchasers of call options and common stock).

For example, the American Depositary Receipt ("ADR") is used in the U.S. to invest in non-U.S. companies and allow Americans to acquire an interest in foreign equity securities without taking ownership of the underlying foreign shares. See In re Vivendi Universale S.A. Sec. Litig., 381 F. Supp. 2d 158, 171-72 (S.D.N.Y. 2003). Purchasers of ADRs have been appointed as lead plaintiff where the class included purchasers of common stock as well. See Linn v. Allied Irish Banks, PLC, No. 02 Civ. 1738 (DAB), 2004 WL 2813133 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 8, 2004) (appointing as lead plaintiff a purchaser of ADRs where class was defined to include, "all those who purchased [defendant company's] securities" during class period); see also In re Converium Holding AG Sec. Litig., No. 04 Civ. 7897 (DLC), 2006 WL 3804619 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 28, 2006) (plaintiff class included purchasers of shares and ADRs). Courts have also certified options traders to represent both derivatives and common stock traders in securities class actions. See, e.g., In re Sepracor Inc. Sec.

Litig., 233 F.R.D. at 56. For instance, in In re Priceline.com Inc. Sec. Litig., defendants argued that because one lead plaintiff had traded almost exclusively in put options, he was an unsuitable representative for class members who traded only in common stock. 236 F.R.D. 89, 98 (D. Conn. 2006). The court rejected this argument because "his interests [we]re aligned with those of the class and 'the link between the alleged misrepresentation and either the price received (or paid) by the plaintiff, or his decision to trade at a fair market price,' remain[ed] intact." Id. at 100 (quoting Basic, Inc. v. Levinson, 485 U.S. 224, 248 (1988)). Thus, "[t]he fact that plaintiffs might have different types of securities does not require a separate class or co-lead plaintiffs because lead plaintiffs need not satisfy all elements of standing with respect to the entire lawsuit under the PSLRA.'" In re: XM Satellite Radio Holdings Sec. Litig., 237 F.R.D. 13, 20 (D.D.C. 2006) (quoting Averdick v. Hutchinson Tech., Inc., 05 Civ. 2095 (MJD/SRN), 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 47445 (D. Minn. Feb. 9, 2006)).

CFD purchasers acquire the future price movement of the underlying company's common stock (positive or negative) without taking formal ownership of the underlying shares. Unlike calls and puts, which trade in tandem with, but not at the same price as, the underlying publicly traded common stock, the purchase and sale prices of CFDs are alleged to be identical to the prices quoted for shares of the underlying company's common stock on the public securities exchange. In advance of pricing the CFDs, actual matching shares of the underlying common stock are purchased or sold by the broker on the public securities exchange on which the common stock normally trades. The prices paid or received by the broker for those corresponding shares of common stock are the prices set for the CFDs representing those shares and charged to, or paid by, the customer. Because identical matched transactions occur in shares of the actual common stock immediately before the purchase or sale of the CFDs, any influence on the public market price of the underlying securities is also reflected in the price of the CFDs. CFDs have no fixed expiration date, CFD holders receive the benefit of any dividends paid on the underlying shares, and the CFD may include voting rights on the underlying shares.

STRS has failed to establish that KSG's claims are atypical, or subject to unique defenses on the grounds that the claims rely on the purchase of CFDs.

Nor does the sale by KSG of their E*Trade securities by August 20, 2007, prior to the end of the alleged class periods in the current complaints, render them inadequate or atypical under the PSLRA, absent a showing that such divestiture creates divergent interests. See In re Gaming Lottery Sec. Litig., 58 F. Supp. 2d 62, 69-71 (S.D.N.Y. 1999) (rejecting defendants' argument that an in-and-out purchaser was an inadequate class representative because he sold as well as purchased at inflated prices); see also Montoya v. Mamma.com, Inc., No. 05 Civ. 2313 (HB), 2005 WL 1278097 (S.D.N.Y. May 31, 2005) (appointing lead plaintiff that was out of the subject stock before the end of the class period).

C. Newman is Appointed Co-Lead Plaintiff

Although the other movants have failed to establish any respect in which KSG's interests are not aligned with the other putative class members, on the possibility that conflicts do ultimately arise, the interests of the class can be protected by the appointment of a co-lead plaintiff.

Newman has incurred the largest loss of any individual stock purchaser and has standing to pursue claims on behalf of various subclasses in this action. During the Class Period, Newman incurred substantial losses trading the common stock of E*Trade, as well as losses trading the options of E*Trade. He also had an E*Trade brokerage account in which he incurred losses trading E*Trade common stock during the Class Period.

Newman has timely moved for appointment and satisfies the typicality requirement of Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(3). His claims arise out of the same course of conduct and are based on the same legal theory of the other members of the class. See Robidoux v. Celani, 987 F.2d 931, 936-37 (2d Cir. 1993); In re Drexel Burnham Lambert Group, Inc., 960 F.2d 285, 291 (2d Cir. 1992).

It is appropriate under the circumstances described above to have a co-lead plaintiff situated in this district whose losses resulted from direct purchases of E*Trade stock.

D. Selected Counsel Are Approved

KSG has selected Brower Piven, a firm with offices in New York City and Baltimore, Maryland, to serve as lead counsel. As demonstrated by the firm's resume, Brower Piven attorneys have more than 20 years of experience in successfully prosecuting shareholder and securities class action litigation, and have frequently served as lead or co-lead counsel in major securities class actions before this Court and others nationwide.

Newman has selected Levi & Korsinsky, LLP, which specializes in federal securities class actions and derivative litigation. Its partners have served as lead counsel or co-lead counsel in a substantial number of securities class actions.

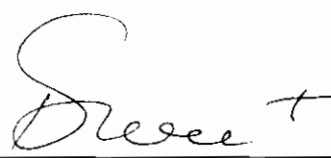

Both firms are qualified to serve as counsel to the class, Brower Piven as lead counsel and Levi Korsinsky as co-lead counsel.

V. CONCLUSION

The motions to consolidate the actions are granted. The motion of KSG to serve as lead plaintiff is granted, Newman's motion is granted to the extent that he is appointed co-lead plaintiff, the motions of STRS and Skandia are denied, and the selection of counsel is approved.

It is so ordered.
